DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-35 and 39, drawn to a pressure-sensitive adhesive comprising a rubbery elastomeric matrix and one or more amphiphilic block copolymers.

Group II, claim(s) 36, drawn to a wound dressing.

Group III, claim(s) 37-38, drawn to a medical device adapted for being attached to the skin of a human.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I-III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The invention as claimed in independent claim 1 does not define a special technical feature distinguishing the claimed invention over the prior art. The pressure sensitive adhesive comprising a rubbery elastomeric matrix and one or more amphiphilic block copolymers as claimed in claim 1 is fully anticipated by, for example, the disclosure of US Patent No. 5705551 to Sasaki et al, which discloses pressure sensitive adhesives (Column 1, lines 13-16) comprising 1) a matrix prepared by blending two or more elastomer rubbers (Column 3, line 18 to Column 4, line 26) and 2) amphiphilic block copolymers comprising one or more hydrophilic blocks and one or more hydrophobic blocks (Column 2, lines 19-45).

3. Accordingly, as the recited composition does not make a contribution over the prior art, unity of invention is lacking and restriction is appropriate.

4. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention of Group I. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species a: Rubbery elastomeric matrix. Applicant is required to elect a species of elastomer for the rubbery elastomeric matrix from the various polymer species recited in claims 7-12.

Species b: Amphiphilic block copolymer structure. Applicant is required to elect a species of the amphiphilic block copolymer defining whether the hydrophobic block(s) and hydrophilic block(s) are prepared from i) identical or essentially identical monomer units or ii) different monomer units, as recited in claims 14-17.

Species c: Amphiphilic block copolymer monomers. Applicant is required to elect an ultimate species of amphiphilic block copolymer from the various claimed monomers used to prepare the hydrophobic and hydrophilic blocks in claims 19-26, 29 and 32.

Species d: Hydrophilic homopolymer. Applicant is required to elect a species of hydrophilic homopolymer which is an additional component of the adhesive composition from the group of polyethylene oxide and hydrophilic polyacrylate, as recited in claims 28 and 29, respectively.

Species e: Adhesive properties. Applicant is required to elect a species of pressure sensitive adhesive wherein 1) the composition has intrinsic adhesive properties or 2) the composition comprises a tackifier and/or a plasticizer which provides adhesive properties, as recited in claims 5 and 6, respectively.

If the invention of Group I is elected for prosecution, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Applicant is further required to ensure that the elected species do not conflict with one another. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

5. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

See above.

The following claim(s) are generic: Claim 1 is generic to the recited species.

6. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The invention as claimed in independent claim 1 does not define a special technical feature distinguishing the claimed invention over the prior art. (see paragraph 2 above).

7. Because this requirement is complex, a response was not solicited by telephone.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
